Celebrating Tu B'Shevat

May we grow like trees, reaching for the heavens while remaining grounded in our shared responsibility to care for and tend the garden of God.

By Rabbi Cantor Russell G. Jayne

Leo & Goldie Sheftel Rabbinical Chair | Norman & Beulah Martin Cantorial Chair

Tu B'Shevat, the "New Year of the Trees" has its origins in the agricultural and tax-related laws of ancient Israeli society. Yet, despite its unassuming beginnings, the holiday has blossomed over the centuries into a yearly celebration of nature, growth, and our connections both to the Divine and to the Earth.

In Jewish tradition trees are deeply symbolic, and humanity is often likened to one in order to remind us of our need for strong roots, proper nourishment, and the resilience required to grow and thrive in turbulent environments. On Tu B'Shevat, we honour this connection by reflecting on the beauty and sustenance provided to us by nature as well as our responsibility to protect and nurture our environment for those who will come after us.

The Kabbalists of the 16th century in Tzfat (Safed) gave Tu B'Shevat an added spiritual dimension by creating a mystical seder that celebrates the four seasons and the Divine presence as reflected in the natural world. Today, this seder often includes fruits and nuts associated with the Land of Israel, such as figs, dates, almonds, olives, and pomegranates. Each bite is an opportunity to appreciate not only the gifts of creation but also reaffirm our connection to our ancestral homeland.

In modern times, Tu B'Shevat has become a rallying point for environmental awareness and action with Jewish communities worldwide marking the day by engaging in ecological initiatives, from reducing waste to promoting sustainable environmental practices. Tu B'Shevat invites us to reconnect with nature and recognize our role as stewards of this Earth. It's a day to marvel at the wonder of a seed transforming into a mighty tree, to savor the sweetness of fruit ripened by both sun and rain, and to commit ourselves to a vision of a healthier world.

My hope is that this holiday will deepen our gratitude for this amazing world that we have been most graciously given and inspire us to engage more deeply in its healing and repair. May we grow like trees, reaching for the heavens while remaining grounded in our shared responsibility to care for and tend the garden of God.

New Year, Old Traditions

No matter what year it is or what the future holds, some traditions endure and have for centuries.

By Susan Inhaber

Commissioner, National Minyan League

As some of you may know, David and I recently ventured on another trip to Australia which has a population of 27.2 million people and a Jewish population estimated at 120,000—about 0.5% of the total population. In comparison, Canada has about 400,000 Jews out of a total of 41.4 million people, for a total of 0.9% Jewish Canadians.

We started in Sydney and then had a chance to travel to Melbourne, Hobart, and other areas in the southern part of Australia. Almost 55,300 Jews make their home in Melbourne, which has around 60 synagogues. As most of you are aware, one of them was recently firebombed. As we were touring around the center of Melbourne, we walked to the East Melbourne Hebrew Congregation in the central business district. We had the opportunity to look at the synagogue from the outside, but when we rang the bell, no one answered.

While much smaller, with around 300 people living in this capital city, Hobart has one synagogue. Dating back to 1845, it is the oldest one in Australia. It was designed in the Egyptian Revival style, by a former Scottish convict. Interestingly, there were numbered benches at the back of the shul for convicts and the poor.

hamakom asher azkir et sh’mi avo aleicha uveirachticha” (In every place where I shall cause my name to be remembered, I shall come to you and bless you).

From their website: “The Exodus story that is so powerfully evoked in the design and inscription of the building had a special resonance for the generation of Jews who were responsible for its construction. For them, nothing was more important than freedom. Many had been born in Europe into privation and squalor, had arrived in their new home as convicts, and had painfully won their freedom. The building was erected as a celebration of that freedom, and of their belief that they had found a new promised land.”

The congregation sent an inquiry to the Chief Rabbi in London asking whether convicts could be counted as members of a minyan, and whether they could be called to the Torah. The responses were affirmative to the first question, and negative to the second. I wonder what the ruling is today.

Sydney has a Jewish population of 43,700. We researched the Great Synagogue in the central business district and discovered that, like all of the other synagogues we visited, we would have to book a tour ahead of time, fill out a form, and provide identification documents before we could attend services.

This just confirmed to us how lucky we are to be members of Beth Tzedec and how fortunate we are to have such a supportive and bustling Jewish community around us. In a city of around 9500 Jews and five synagogues, we have much to be proud of—including our twice daily minyanim and many programs for the young, the young at heart, and everyone in between.

So, Yasher Koach not only to the members of the National Minyan League, but to all those who host, plan, and attend the many things that make Jewish life in Calgary possible.

Exciting Changes to Our Lineup

I would like to welcome Josh Orzech as the newest captain of what was formerly known as Team X. He has recently rebranded this team as Team Maccabees. His sons have also joined the team and, with other team members, they have revived this group and are moving up in the standings. Kol hakavod to them!

Seudah Shelishit:

Unveiling the Brilliance of the Zohar

Saturdays, February 1, 8, & 22

4:30pm to 6:30pm

Shabbat is not only a time for rest. It is also a time to expand one's mind through learning Torah in community. Please join us for Seudah Shelishit as we explore the wonders of the Zohar, the central work in Kabbalah literature, and its attempt to uncover the hidden meanings behind the world of appearances. Click here to register.

Judaism 201

Mondays, February 3, 10 & 24

5:00pm to 6:00pm

Judaism 201 will continue exploring commentaries on the Torah throughout the ages with Rabbi Russ. We will start with Maimonides and proceed backwards in time looking at the esteemed Rashi and some of the earliest Kabbalistic works. Click here to register.

Family Shabbat Dinner

Friday, February 7

5:30pm to 8:30pm

Celebrate Shabbat with friends and community at our popular Family Shabbat Dinner! Join us for an interactive Shabbat program featuring singing and stories for all ages, followed by a delicious kosher dinner. Share the joy and traditions of Shabbat in a fun and welcoming atmosphere for the whole family. Click here to register.

Games Night

Gardening as Part of a Healthier Lifestyle with Oxana Lyashenko

Wednesday, February 19

12:00pm to 2:00pm

We all seek ways to live healthy, happy, and full lives. People who live in big cities experience a lot of stress, much of which is related to their separation from the natural world around them. This month, Oxana Lyashenko—landscape designer, textile artist, and photographer—will talk about gardening as a way to be more active in your everyday life. Click here to register.
